3.3.1 - Extension activities are carried out in the neighborhood community, sensitizing students to social issues, for their holistic development, and impact thereof during the year

Mahathi College of Pharmacy actively engages in extension activities within the neighborhood community to sensitize students to social issues, fostering their holistic development. Guided by its mission of societal contribution and inspired by the philosophy of Jiddu Krishnamurthy, the institution integrates social responsibility into education through various initiatives.

Health awareness campaigns, blood donation camps, and organ donation drives are regularly organized to promote public health awareness. Students participate in rallies and community programs addressing pressing issues such as environmental sustainability, safe medication practices, and drug abuse prevention. These activities not only educate the public but also instill a sense of empathy, responsibility, and ethical values in students.

The institution collaborates with local organizations, hospitals, and NGOs to conduct health camps and distribute free medicines to underserved communities. Through the National Service Scheme (NSS) and other committees, students are encouraged to participate in community-centric programs, contributing to their personal growth and understanding of real-world challenges.

The impact of these activities is evident in the enhanced social awareness, teamwork, and leadership skills exhibited by students. By bridging academic learning with community engagement, Mahathi College of Pharmacy nurtures well-rounded individuals committed to societal betterment.
